M'lle Marie Stella is said to be out of danger... This piece of news will be cheering to her thousands of admirers in all purts of the country.

President Arthur is still working hard in the field of reform. He is grabbing out a great many superfluous offices and generally cutting down other expenses.

There seems to be a singular fatality among the West Point graduates. Thirtyseven died last year, and that was the number that passed over the year before.

Mrs. Aumo Louise Raymond (nee Cary) will hold fast to her promise not to appear in public as a singer. The Philharmonic society, of Brooklyn offered her $1,000 for one evening, but she declined. She has sung at these concorts every season for twenty years.

Mr. W. H. Vanderbilt has reduced his United States bonds from $52,000,000 to $37,000,000. The other heavy government bondholders are as follows: Mrs. A. T. Stewart, $30,000,000; Jay Gould, $13,000,000 registered and a large amount of coupon bonds; an estate in Boston and three or four persons in New York. have $10,000,000 each: the estate of Moses Taylor, $5,000,000; D. O. Mulls, $4,000,000. These, with an unmarried lady in New York-name not givenwho has $3,000,000, are the largest holders in the United States. In Europe the Rothschilds are said to hold the evidences of nearly one-quarter of the entire bonded debt. They have, including all their bankers, $400,000,000. In England, the Baroness Burdett-Contts-Bartlett has $20,000,000; the Duke of Sutherland $5,000,000, and Sir Thomas Brassey, $5,-000,000.

About the failure of J. H. Haverly, the Chicago Journal has a word to say which will throw more light on his financial downfall. "The financial collapse of Mr. Haverly, the well-known theatrical manager, is but a repetition of the same old story of "vaulting ambition" o'erleaping itself. He had too many from in the fire He undertook to "corner" the dramatic business of the big cities by running many great theaters at the same time some making money, others proving a dead loss. Then, not satisfied with overdoing his legitimate business, he rushed blindly into mining speculations, wheat deals, expensive horsettesh and gaming ventures. Of course, it was only a question of time when such a reckless and spready business career would end in an explosion. Mr. Haverly's triends are sorry for him, but cannot be surprised at what has happened. The same thing has often happened before to spready peopleand will happen again to others. The simplest lessons of life fail to make an impression upon some minds." Another reason why he failed is this: He did not always maintain his reputation for keeping first class shows on the road. He began to disappoint the people, and when this thing began, the road to failure was made very short.

As an excuse for passing an ordinance over the mayor's veto, so that saloonkeepers could keep open all night if they chose, the Milwaukee aldermen say that they were actuated by no purpose to aid the saloons, but have simed only to rebake the mayor for what they deem to be his unjust and uncalled for warfareupon saloon interests.

To this the Evening Wisconsin makes answer: "The thing they aim to do-i. e. 'clip the mayor's wings' and deprive him of certain powers the charter conferred upon him-they have accomplished in the new ordinance giving to applicants saloon-liceuse the right appeal to the council. In this they have punished the mayor as they intended and as they profess he deserved to be punished. And now will come a test that is to prove whether the aldermen sought primarily only to snub the mayor, or whether their chief aim has been and is to give freedom and license to the saloon evil at the expense of public order and public safety."

The fact is, the Milwankee city council is in full sympathy with the saloon element in Milwaukec. That seems to be the long and the short of the story.

TOMBSTONE, Arizona, June 12.—Gen. Crook has returned from Mexico. He has encamped on the Silver creek, at the south and of the Chiricahuai range, sixty miles south of here, and about twenty north of the Mexican line. Soco Chatto, and two hundred hostiles surrendered to and were brought back by Crook. Among the prisoners are seventy-five bucks, old and young. The remainder are women and children.

It is believed Crook will return to Mexico and endeavor to capture the warriors. His command is in an excellent fighting teim. There have been no casualties so far. A band of twenty-five Indians are reported near Richmond, N. M. They are supposed to be renegades, driven out by Crook, trying to get to their reservation.

A man who arrived at Lordsburg, N. M., this morning reports that he was fired upon by twenty-five Indians eight miles from Richmond on Burro Spring road. The red-skins were mounted, while he was on foot. He returned the fire. It being quite dark he was enabled to escape.

Col. Forsyth, of Gen. McKenzie's command.

took the trail of the Indians yesterday fore noon. It is believed the hostiles have been driven out of Mexico by Gen. Crook, and are making their way to Arizona.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 12.—The Washington correspondent of the Courier-Journal

sends the following to his paper: I have been off on a little trip, a short, lively and delightful one. Only gone two days, but had two hogsheads of fun. The trip was an excursion to Dear Park, situated nearly 2,700 feet above the level of the sea, on the top of the Allegan recommendation of the Park, so that the Park of the Park gliony mountains, on the line of the B. & O. about 175 miles from Washington city. The mention of an excursion in warm weather always throw me into a perspiration. I could imagine soveral hundred tired, sweltering persons packed like sardines in a hot; dusty, dirty car. Phow, but I hate excursions like that. They are simply horrible. This was so different. Everything was so nice. Our party numbered twenty, all told. We had two elegant and commodious Pullman sleepers. One contained the refreshments and the other the humanity. It was a july crowd of educated, cultured gentlemen. Mr. Charles T. Murray comes next. He represents four newspapers, namely: The Philadelphia Times, St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Pittsburg Dispatch and Charleston News-Courier, When I approached Mr. Murray he was engaged in an earnest conversation with Mr. Shaw on the general fickleness of the fair sex, and, as I came up and askel him his choice for president he declared he would murder me if I attempted to talk polities to him, but finally said he was for McDonald, if a Democrat, and Gresham, if a Republican. No old ticket. It is three years too late. Mr. Tilden has had enough of the Democratic party. Engineer Melville Thus Describes the Home His Wife Made For Him---A Letter in Self-Defense.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. June 12—Engineer Mclville has carefully avoided writing any letters for publication as to the criticism of his course in connection with his family, and he would not have departed from his course to write any at all had he not felt, as he says, that he was being "hounded down." The fol lowing, his first open letter on his domestic broubles, is made public:

OFFICE OF CHIEF ENGINEER, UNITED STATES NAVY YARD, LEAGUE ISLAND, June 1, 1883.—Editors of The Daily Herald, Reading, Pa.: Sirs-Heretofore I have avoided answering all attack on my name and reputation, supposing that the courts alone would settle the question of family discord. Your paper, with others, without cause, apparently ignorance, has attempted to bound me down, charging all sorts of ruscality and meanness, when the evidence before the court showed that the head and front of my offend ing consisted in being a scafaring man and would not live with a drinking woman. Your main charge (issue of May 30) is that "Engineer Melville's wife has been living on the charity of her friends." It is cortainly strange that you should publish a statement of that kind in the face of the order of the court which allotted her $70 per month and which has always been paid. It seems so singular to me that the press. of the United States should so pervert the facts and charge me with desertion of my family, when it is well known that I provided a comfortable house and left an allotment of $90 per month for the time I was absent, and when my pay was increased, upon my promotion, the then secretary of the navy; Mr. Hunt, without my consent, allowed this woman $130 per month for thirteen months, until Mr. Chandler was ande secretary, when he, complying with the law, reduced the amount to the original allotment of $90 per month, which I in time confirmed, and continued paying that sum up to the time of the order of the court which allowed her $70 per month for the support of herself and two youngest children. During nerseit and two youngest enforces. During my absence of three years and five months she had a house to live in, and in that time drow of my earnings $4,440, besides running me in debt to the amount of $2,000, for which the household goods were saled and sale by the classiff ward.

goods were seized and sold by the sheriff, and upon my arrival at what should have been my home I was ushered into the presence of a drunken maniac, who had polluted my name that had never before borne a stain. Because I would not live with such a woman and condone all of her untold nastiness of the provious years, I am charged with desertion, and am followed up by your paper in a statement that 'I am seen on the streets not al ways in good company." This charge may mean a great deal, or it may mean nothing. I may frequently be seen on the streets when I have a reason to go there. There is no reason why Melville should slink through the slums and back alleys of this city. He always stands out in open day, and is never seen in company with persons that he would be ashamed to be found dead with, or any whose character would bring a blush of shame to the cheek of his mother, were she living. During the trial of the case at Media; this woman's attorneys ventilated my character from the time I was a school boy in New York, then raked Philadelphia, from the Delaware to the Schuylkill, from Southwark to Richmond, without finding one blemish which they could fasten upon to smirch my personal character. The great and only fault is I did go to sen eighteen years out of twenty-two to avoid a hell on shore, and that I would not condone the faults of a drunken woman. An insertion of this in your paper may to a slight degree counteract the slander ous statements that have been going the Illinois Legislature.

Springfield, Ill., Jane 12.—The sonate convened yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. About a dozen senators were in their sents. Senator Hunt occupied the chair. House bills on first reading were taken up and advanced or reforred to committees. When house bill 287, known as the Harper high license bill, was reached and read a first time, Mr. Condee moved that it be sent to the order of second reading without reference to a committee. The motion prevailed instancer, these opposed to the bill not knowing what was being done until it was done.

The house met at 5 o'clock and held a brief session, with Mr. Haines in the chair. About forty members were present. A few unimportant bills were advanced to second read-

Recly's Motor.

New York, June 12.—The Tribune says: The president of the Keely Motor Stock com-pany, Mr. Edward Handall, of Brooklyn, is one of the officials of the Erio railway, and he is a firm believer in the successful application of the new power which he thinks Mr. Keely has discovered. "There is a discovery without any sort of doubt," he said yesterday: how he is going to apply it is the only ques-tion which troubles us. The Eric engineer, Mr. Canute, says it is some new and to him mysterious motor, and he has seen the generator repeatedly. We are now building," added Mr. Randall, "a locomotive of 500 horse-power with which we propose to draw a train of Pullman palace cars frem Philadelphia to this city." "At what time?" "At what time?" Ah that remains to be seen."

A Good Investment.

My wife said I was a fool when I brought home a bottle of Parker's Tonic. But when it broke up my cough and cured her neuralgia and baby's dysentery she thought it a good investment—N. Y. Tailor.

We believe that there is a large class of patent medicines whose ingredients are skillfully and conscientiously selected and compounded, and that they have been very useful in the domestic treatment of disease. We must come to this conclusion in precisely the same way that we come to the conclusion that a man is a skillful physician—by what they accomplish, and by the testamony of those who have used them. The reputacion apatent medicine is sustained by exactly the same evidence that supports a skillful physician's reputation. *

Many of those medicines came out of the regular practice, and were prepared and originally prescribed by the best physicians, * * Yory few of them, we believe are humbugs and frauds in the consciousness or the invent of their makers. *

One Man Killed and Others Wounded Fatally and Otherwise--Murder In Indian Territory.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 12.-S. C. Davis, a prominent member of the bur of this city, attempted to kill the Hon, J. E. Lamb, congressman from this district, yesterday after-noon. The affair took place at the foot of the stairs leading to Lamb's office on Wall street, and grow out of ill-feeling developed in an important case in which the attorneys were opposing counsel. Davis was standing at the foot of the stairs with Edward Pugh, a young lawyer, and H. G. Thompson, when Lamb crossed from the opposite side of the street to address them. Davis said: "Don't you speak talk to you." "No, you won't speak to me, you ______," returned Davis. "I'll kill you." With these words be drew a revolver. Lamb, who had a roll of paper in one hand and a cane in the other, throw up his right arm in an attempt to knock the revolver from Davis's grasp. Fugh caught Davis's cutt, but could not provent shooting. Ho pointed from directly revolver who attempted to soize it, and falling, ducked his head just as Davis fired. This action saved his life, and he ran into Brown's dry goods store. Davis made no attempt to follow. The ball from the revolver passed through the side of a passing wagon and struck the foot of Josh Hicklin, a Sugar Creek farmor, inflicting a painful but not dangerous wound. Davis immediately surrendered himself to the authorities, but Lamb refused to file an aflidavit against him, and he was released. The news of the shooting spread rapidly, and a crowd soon gathered at the scene. The report was carried to the circuit court, which immediately adjourned. Something of the kind had been expected for several days past, as the feeling between the men had been intensified by tale-bearers. It came to the ears of Davis that Lamb was carrying a loaded cane for the purpose of attacking him, and was waiting for a good chance to meet him. Davis declines to give any statement to the nowspapers.

TROY, N. Y., June 12 .- At half past 4 yesterday afternoon a riot occurred between non-union molders employed at the malleable iron works here and the union moulders. Since the owners of the works discharged the union molders and supplied their places there has been a bitter feeling. Threats were freely made and so often carried out that some weeks ago Sleicher, Grippen & Chase, the proprietors of the works, employed a number of Pinkerton's men to guard their foundry and to protect their employes. They also secured as a boarding place for the non-union mon a large building which was for-morly a Catholic church. This is the building which was to have been blown up some weeks ago. The proprietors of the foundry furnished their men with revolvers, and since then several shooting affrays have occurred. Yesterday some non-union mon, who were intoxicated, went to Mahou's sa loon, which is the headquarters of the discharged union molders. Immediately a fight ensued. Both crowds were under influence of liquor, and be-bandying words. Suddenly a gan bandying words. Suddenly a shot was fired. Where it came from is not known. It was the ignal for the non-union men to draw their revolvers and to fire in-William Hutchinson, a discriminately. union moulder, fell to the ground dead.

Joseph Winestone, also a union man, was shot in the breast, and is fatally wounded. Arthur Imeson, another union moulder, was wounded in the leg. The bloody result of the affray caused a momentary cessation, but it was renewed just as the police appeared. The police rushed in among the men who seemed to be engaged in the war, and soon had in custody Sanford C. White, aged 10 years; Thomas Canfield, 18 years of age; Thomas Joues, aged 23 years, and John Joues, 22 years. White and Canfield are non-union men, and are said to have fired the shots. An excited crowd followed the officers down Congress street, and an attempt was made to lynch the man White. Supt. Quigley ordered the mob-to stand back, whereupon the exas-perated crowd attacked him, knocked him down, and were choking him when some of his men rescued him. While some of his men rescued him. going down the hill in a street-car a large going down the fill in a sureoccur a large erowd attacked the car, with a view of taking the prisoners away and dealing with them themselves, but when the crowd learned the men were in Quigley's custody they withdrow. The entire active police force have been detailed to go to the scene of the murder, and will remain there during the night. The reserve force in each precinct have also been instructed to be in readiness at any time to go on duty in case of emergency.

THE POLLOCK TRAGEDY. VINCENNES, Ind., June 12.—The terrible tragedy of Saturday night is still the all-ab-Sorbing topic of conversation on the street corners, in places of business, and in the household. Business was almost suspended yesterday. The double funeral took place vesterday afternoon at the Pollock mausion, which occupies one entire half of a square of ground fronting on South street, and the promises and streets were thronged with two or three thousand people. A sermon was preached by Roy. Edward P. Whallon, of the Presbytorian church, of which congregation Mrs. Pollock became a member three months ago. At the close of the exercises the immense crowd filed into the parlor of the house, where the caskets containing Pollock and his wife were placed side by side, with sufficient room between to admit of the passage of the people by pairs. The appearance of the murderer and his victim was natural, the beautiful face of the latter wearing a smile that had been one of her marked charactoristics through life. The scene at the cometery will never be forgotten by those who witnessed it. Never before has it been found necessary in our city of the dead to prepare a grave sufficiently large to inclose two adults, as was done yesterday in this case. The ceremony was solemn and im-

There are few, if any, important develop-ments. The coroner has viewed the bodies, but will defer action for a day or two. Nothing has been discovered to enable one to judge of the cause of the tragedy. It is said that when young Pollock became temperate some months ago, he roulized how degraded he had become, and told his mother that it whisky ever obtained such a hold on him again it would be usoless to try to shake it off, and he would kill himself at onco. From the position of the bodies as they lay in bed after the tragedy some people are advancing the theory that the shooting was an accident which is a very charitable one at any rate. A sensation was created in the afternoon by the report that the dead woman's father Joseph Clendenin, of Petersburg, objected to the burial of his daughter by the side of her slayer, and that the remains will yet be removed from their sepulcher. roughs had been tirinking and carousing about town, and during the evening were shooting off their revolvers. Porter closed his store about 9 o'clock, after which he was last seen approaching a crowd of these men. He was found this morning lying dead in the street in front of his store shot through the heart. The cause can only be conjectured as whether accidental or the result of political foud. Portor was educated at Wooster college, Ohio, and was a rising young man of

FITZ JOHN'S BLAST.

The Doughty General Eases His Mind with Reference to 'Black Jack"---Some Severe Reflections.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Gen. Fitz John Porter arrived in the city yesterday, and is stopping at the Palmer house. He is representing the interests of an eastern car company at the railway exposition, add intends to remain until Monday next. A reporter called upon the general last evening, and while he expressed a decided unwillingness to be interviewed, be unconsciously unburdened himself of some very interesting information. He said he was here on matters entirely per-sonal and at first declined to talk of anything connected with his past history. Eventually, however, the conversation drifted. ipon political matters, and dwelt especially upon his case before congress, which has at-tracted such widespread attention. He did not look upon his case as one calling for political interference, but as an effort to right a wrong which had been done and maintained through ignorance. He considered that the longer it had been maintained the more it was injuring those who through ignorance were opposing the right. He said:

"When this case was brought before congress, it was decided that politics should not enter into it, and Republicans as well as Democrats pledged their support of my claim. Among them, Don Cumeron and Senator Logan were louder in their professions of friendship. But in 1880 a conference-I will not call it a caucus—was held by the Republicans, at which it was decided to make it a party issue. Those who had voluntarily pledged their support came one after the other asking to be relieved from a duty which, under the circumstances, they could not perform consistently with party custom. Cameron went to Gov. Randolph, and while expressing the deepest regret at the turn affairs had taken, said that the dictates of party must be obeyed, and he must work against me. Senator Logan did the same; but from subsequent developments, I have mason to think that his friendship was never overburtioned with sincerity. Thus, at the crack of the party whip, the majority of the Republicans bolted my cause, and the matter was re-solved into a clearly-drawn political issue."

"What do you intend to do further in your

"I will bring it up before the next congress as entirely new matter and will prosecute my claim more vigorously than ever. What do you think of Logan as a presidential possibility?"

Mr. Porter smiled a doleful sort of smile, and remained quiet for some time. Finally he said:

"Mr. Logan bas certain interests in this city that I do not wish to antagonize, and if I should say anything it would cause unnecessary irritation. You know that I have no connection with politics. But I could make it warm for him if I wanted to." After a moments reflection, "He is spoken of rather prominently as a candidate for president, isn't he? I noticed that Grant in a recent interview mentioned him as one of the foremost in the field."

"Do you think he would accept the nominatiou?

Would he? Well I should think he would. But Mrs. Logan has more to do with his aspirations than ho has himself. She is a very nice woman, and a great favorite in Washington society. Logan is apparently now laboring under the delusion that the people will as one man rise up and call him to the presidency. His estimate of his popularity is nilated beyond all reason, and I believe if any tool thought he was going to accomplish a thing, without the possibility of a failure, Logan is the one."

"Do you think he would stand any chance of election if he were nominated?

Not the slightest. He is not the man to win the support of the people, and there have been many things in his career that have shaken their confidence in him. But if he is nominated, let me tell you confidentially that there will be disclosures made which will destroy the last vestige of hope of his success. I know Senator Logan's private life as well as he does himself, and several things could be said that would not be of credit to him as a married man, and this will all come out some day. I will not enter into details now, because it is not necessary, but let him get the presidential nomination and something will drop. Aside from all things else, John A. Logan has been more contemptible in his treatment of me than any gentleman of honor would be. He has resorted to the smallest, meanest tricks to injure me and to curry favor with the soldier element. He has made it a point to visit meetings of Grand Army posts, and there, either directly or indirectly, induce them to adopt resolutions condemning me and oulogizing him. He has gone to such ridiculous extremos to create a boom for the presidency, but he will find that he has far overreached himself. Let me tell you that not withstanding all of his herculean efforts and sanguine hopes, John A. Logan will never be elected president of the United States, even if he gets the nomination. He can secure the latter only by resorting to the measures most familiar to the machine, but if he does he will have his labor for his pains and nothing more. Logan is just as high as he will ever get, and higher than he ever deserved to be, and rather than see such a man foisted upon an unsuspecting people I will make a disclosure of some cold facts that will knock his expectations glimmering."

In justice to Mr. Porter it can be said that In justice to Mr. Porter it can be said that he probably did not expect the above interview to appear verbatim before the public, but in talking of a matter in which the most sanguine elements of his being were brought into action he worked himself into a passion that induced him to express himself in a way that, with a little calm deliberation, would not have commended itself.

In An Air-Lock. I climbed down Saturday into the tunnel under the Hudson River through which the railroad trains of the next decade are to run. The air-lock through which the visitor must pass before reaching the workmen is so different from all other places in the world as to merit a brief description. In a well on the shore I climbed down a ladder twenty feet or so, and there found, lying partly con-cealed in earth, a sort of hogshead made of bottler-iron half an inch thick. As I was looking at the uncanny thing one end of it mysteriously opened and swung. inward, and a goblin voice said, "Crawlin." I silently obeyed and the iron I silently obeyed, and the iron door quickly closed behind me. I found myself with another human being who was attired in rubber as I was, and who had a candle. "Ready!" he said, and turned a lever at his side. The inside of the little tube in which we crouched was filled with the most deafening whistle I have ever heard. I knew that he was now tilling the chamber with compressed air. Presently it began to press upon my eyes, nose, throat, and especially my cars, whose drums seemed pierced as with pins. The candle went out, and we were left in total darkness. The shrick increased. The pressure became very painful. I touched the arm of the engineer; in fact, I could not for a moment help touching it, and he reversed the lever for a moment to relieve the pressure, presently turning it on again with the unearthly yell. This sensation was strange. Croucked in an iron tub with a stranger, in total darkness, under the earth, under the river for aught I knew, apparently flying somewhere at the rate of about five hundred miles a minute, feeling a terrible pressure on my eyes and ears, hot as Tophet, submerged in bewildering scream, and at the mercy of levers and mechanism of which I knew nothing—it was very much as I once felt when up in a balloon. It seemed half an bour that I was in there; it was seven or eight minutes, probably, when the whistle suddenly faded away the inner door opened, and we crawled out into candle-light—the top of another well that went down thirty feet further. Down this we climbed, and there were a score or two of men building the brick shell of the tunnel. The air is about three atmospheres "thick," so to speak, and it is sufficient to keep the water back, so that the men can dig urinterruptedly in the black mud. If the air-pressure were withdrawn for a minute the river would rush in and drown the whole party. Great care is observed, and they are not afraid. Moreover, they seen comfortable and contented in there, and the contractor is not required to pay say advance on ordinary wages-four dollars a day or so. They come in and go out by the air-lock every day, but do not mind it. This is the most difficult part of the river-directly under the great steamers lying at the wharves. After watching the workmen a quarter of an hour we started out. On climbing to the air-lock we discerned another yell in it—the yell of evidently frightened men. 'More new hands,' said my escort, and smiled. The door swung open, emitting a yelp of pain and terror; a German laborer climbed out with a "A couple of green Italians," he said. They were still yelling. One was lying on the bottom of the concern. Shortly they looked up and peeped out, or rather in where we were. They positively refused to get out. The German could not pull them out. They wildly scratched at the outer door and tried to open it-with an air pressure of twentyfive tons on it! After much coaxing. and wheadling, and bribing they still refused, and had to be taken back, we waiting outside. Then we got in and took our ride back. In returning I did not feel so much as if seven strong men were holding me and administering laughing-gastome. The trip was quick. Out on the bank we found the two Italians, lying prostrate, bleeding at the number, and always held the name of the impelace."

Russian Official Ethics.

Returning home from a dinner party in St. Petersburg once. Prince Gort-schakoff missed from the pocket of his overcoat his pocketbook, containing 30,-000 rubles. He at once informed the Chief of Police, who assured him that the thief would quickly be bunted down. Surely enough, before a week had passed the Unier restored to the Frince the ene onier restored to the frince the entire sum of money intact, but without the pocketbook, which, he said, the thief confessed having thrown away to avoid identification. This was very well, but a day or two later Gortschakoff, putting on the same overcoat, was surprised to find in a pocket overlooked before the missing pocketbook containing untouched the 30,000 rubles, which he really had never lost at all. The idea of restoring the supposed stolen money to the Prince from the public funds, in hope of thus winning favor for zeal and efficiency, speaks worlds for the police officer's ingenuity, but presents a curious phase of Russian official ethics.—N.Y.

-The canal through the Isthmus of Corinth will probably be finished in four years. It will be four miles long and of the same dimensions as that of Sucz, or seventy-two feet wide-and twenty-six feet deep at low water. By passing through the canal vessels from Adriatic ports will save 186 miles, and vessels from the Mediterranean ports will save ninety-five miles, besides avoiding the dangerous coast around Cape Mantapan - Chicago Herald.

The other evening, little Annie Carroll, aged seven years, came home to her mother, in New York, and told her she had skipped the rope two hundred times and her head ached. She died two days afterward, and the doctor said it was from come and congestion of the brain.-N. Y. Times.

Props of Water. MR. JOSEPH G. BIORNELL, No. 642 Main Street

Cambridgeport, Mass., writes, April 27, 1883 I have been terribly afflicted for a number of years with gravel and kidney disease. My urine contained brick-dust deposits, and at times I could not pass my water except in drops and with great pain; and have had to get up as many as fifteen times during the night. I tried several physicians; they did me no good, but a friend of mine, who had used Hunt's Remedy, told me to get a bottle and try it. He had been cared of a severe case similar to mine, and that others had used Hunt's Bemedy in Cambridge and pronounced it a medecine of real merit. After being repeatedly urged I purchased a bottle, and before I had used all of it I passed a stone as large, as a pea, followed by smaller ones. I have used in all ten bottles in every place; for I tell you that I would not be without it in my house for any consideration. I am now suffering with and it has completely cured me. My kidneys are in excellent condition, and for one of my age (58) sixty-eight years, I can truly say I feel likes young man with strength and vitality. My family use the Remedy, and would not be without it, and never fail to recommend it to our friends and neighbors in Cambridge and Boston. You are at liberty to use my name in praise of the best kidney and liver medecine, Hunt's Remedy.'

"Did Wonders for Me."

The above words from Mr. Lewis Kres, No. 9 Highland Avenue, Malden, Mass. April 28, (883). He says: "I have been troubled for years with kidney and liver complaint, followed by gravel, with severe pains in my back and groins I had great trouble in passing water, it being scapty, and accompanied by terrible burning, the vessel being coated with brick-dust deposit I was recommended to use Hunt's Remedy by friend who had been completely cured of similar trouble. I purchased a bottle at the summar trouble. I purchased a bottle at the druggists, and commenced to improve at once. I have used but two bottles, and it has done wonders for me—no more kidney trouble, no more pain. It has given use new life, and I would not be without Hunt's Remedy at any price. It is all that it is recommended to be, and I observally give this testimony for the boneit of the many sufferers from kidney disease and gravel."

We have either arranged to give the purchaser his choice of all the varieties, or we have solected after careful comparison, what we consider to be the bost. Everything in our stock has been chosen with particular reference to the want of this community and the surrounding countir, and we want every purchaser to feel assured that in baying of us he is getting the greatest obtainable value for his money. Speaking of money brings us to the question of prices, and right here we must be pardoned if we do a little brugging. We do not claim to be smarter than the generality of men in a horse trade or sharper in a deg dicker, but when it comes to buying a stock of Hardware stores we know hust what we are about. We have been enabled by our experience and certain advantages we nosees—not the least of which is buying for SPOT CASH, to lay in our new spring stock of seasonable goods at figures which would astenisio aur competitors if they knew thom, and will allow us to offer our patrons a benefit in the way of ROCK BOTTOM PRICES for TIP TOP GOODS, that we are sure will be appreciated.

BELOIT'S MISFORTUNE

A Destauctive Tornado Sweeps Through the Business Portion of the City.

Heavy Damage Done to Build ings and to Stocks of Goods.

One Man Killed and Several Others Severely Injured.

How the Tornado Appeared, and the Particulars Regarding the Devastation.

A List of the Injured.

To bear the dreadful results of the most destructive tornado that ever visited Rock county fell to the lot of Beloit last evening. The wrath of the storm culminated at six o'clock when two clouds met, and the destruction was almost instantaneous and complete. There were two clouds that lent their furry to the scene.

For the space of two minutes, possibly not so long, the circular procession of these clouds was maintained at a heighth seemingly not more than eighty or a hundred feet above the ground, and the centre of which was apparently a little south of the C. &. N. W. R. R. bridge, when from the southwest or south came a rushing, sweeping, all prevading, all-swallowing sound, growing fuller and mightier and more mysterious as it were with every instant of time. Before it the yellow, swiftly circling clouds were merged in the solid wall that rushed from the southwest and in it lost their color and identity. For a second or two there was suspense, and then the tornado swept downward or downward, first striking the river a few rods south of the railroad bridge and dashing the water in huge detached volumes ten feet or more into the air. Almost simultaneously but not quite, the water in the river north of the railroad bridge was struck and thrown high in the air, not in sheets, but in six or eight separate columns, like great pillars of marble. The roaring was now absolutely terrific. Not a combination of noises, but one single several children. unvarying voluminous enwrapping, absorbing sound, in which all other sounds were lost and swallowed up. Possibly a second, but probably in much less time, after the river was smitten, the roof of the reifroad bridge was lifted, torn to atoms and sent flying through the air to the north, and the whole structure was then abandoned to total destruction, and next came the unroofing of Hamlin & Race's store.

SOME OF THE DESTRUCTION. The steeple of the First Congregational church was seen to shoot up into the air bodily, and it fell in the park just across Bushnell street, laying with the small part toward the south. The spire of the Presbyterian church was blown off and landed on Parsons Johnson's property adjoining the church on the east.

The Baptist steeple was wrecked, and will probably have to be taken down.

Some of the paper mill hands saw the destruction of the machine room, and say that a funnel-shaped cloud came twisting and bounding from a northwest direction, striking into the river just below the new bridge piling, and drawing a great volume of water high into the air, then jumping right on to the machine room, leveling the east and north east walls. Mr. Edward Holleran, the employe, who lost his life, and another workman ramed John Malloy, had been watching the cyclone, and fearing that it would strike them, they attempted to get into the mill. Malloy jumped through a window and saved his life, but received bad injuries. Mr. Holleran tried to reach the door, but before he could enter it he was crushed beneath the heavy stone wall. His remains were recovered a few hours later. Mr. S. M. Guest, of Olinton Junction, was on the corner of Bridge and State streets when the storm struck. Think, ing he would be blown away he grasped his arms around the big telephone pole by C. A. Emerson's ding store. He whirled around this pole like a loose pulty on a shaft until the pole was broken short off ot the bottom, and fell with him under it. Marshal North and others went to his relief and extricated him He was carried into the Goodwin house and cared for. His injuries amount to two broken ribs, besides being hurt in-

The damage to the business blocks is as follows: The Parker block had its plate glass front broken; also the one in the First National bank, and likewise that of Corcoran Brothers' grocery store. Brown's block suffered the heaviest damage. The entire roof was carried away. The elevation on the front destroyed, and a portion of the front wall torn down. The occupants of the block wore placed in a dreadful plight, everything therein being flooded. P. H. Crahen, eigar manufacturer, is a heavy loser. The "Outlook" office, and Shea, the tailor, are also among the victims. Dr. Brenton, who had quarters in the second story, was also flooded. The dry goods store of Bort & Bayley, the clothing store of Frank Travers, the stationery store of H.J. Smith, and the boot and shoe store of Ross & Greene, had their stocks hadly damaged, but the heaviest losers are Bort & Bailey, Smith, and Travers. The roof of Winslow & Rosenburge's building was torn off. The opera house root was torn up somewhat, and some the cornice blown away. The hotel building suffered only slight damages in the way of broken glass. A great deal of glass was broken in Carpenter's block and nearly all the plate glass in his dry good store. E. R. Smith's dry good store suffered the loss of the glass front. D. S. Foster is a heavy loser by the vengence of the tornado. The root of his building was taken off and the elegant shal Hogan asking the council to appoint plate glass front completely destroyed an additional special policeman for Sat-

His wall paper and large stock of stationery was largely damaged by water. The windows of C. A. Emerson's & Co.'s drug store were broken out. Guernsey's printing establishment is a total wreck. The large two-story frame building owned by J. J. Pierson and occupied by Hunt & Biddle, carpenters, and Johnson & Smith, painters, was badly wrecked. C. H. Dingman's carriage repository is almost a total wreck, and besides he loses a number of fine vehicles. Hamlin & Race, jewelers, are unfortunately, heavy losers, the building being unroofed and the stock very much damaged.

The great battlements of Brown's large block, together with the roofing, were torn away and ihurled across the street completely wrecking the plate glass front of Emerson & Co.'s drugstore. In wending their way, the battlements did considerable damage to the front wall of Brown's block, and then fell to the ground and crushed through the sidewalk. The great plate glass front of the Second National bank were blown out, and shattered into a thousand pieces.

There was much other damage done to business blocks and private houses, but time and space will not permit a mention of them in detail.

THE INJURED.

S. M. Guest, of Chinton Junction, had two ribs broken, and received some severe internal injuries. Little Willie Hendley was picked up by Marshal North after being carried some distance by the tornade. He received a bad scalp wound.

W. D. Kellogg, Esq., was on the bridge when the storm was at its greatest fury. and would have been blown into the river, but he grasped the railing, and his life was nearly; whipped out of bim, yet he escaped with nothing more than

Philip Gleason, was passing Hamlin & Race's store, and was then picked up and violently dashed through the front .window. His hip and out leg were badly hurt. John Meloy had his back, leg, and head badly injured. Michael Smith received a severe head wound. A Mr. Pease had his back severely hurt, besides getting some internal injuries. Edward Holloran, who was killed at the Rock river paper mill leaves a wife and

The damage done to property is estimated at from $60,000 to $100, 000, including the Northwestern railway bridge. Handreds of trees were blown down, which made some of the residence streets almost impassable. The editor of the Gazette is under deep obligation to Mr. Cham Ingersoll, editor of the Beloit Free Press, for his much kindness and great patience in putting the Gazette in possession of the facts here given in regard to the tornado.

GENTLEMEN: I beg leave to report to your honorable body, that No. I engine house is in need of repairs; the floor near the horse stalls and where the engine stands is unsafe and should be repaired the hose company at this house is in need of a stall for the horse purchased by them, and I would recommend that the meeting room of the company be abandoned for that purpose and so much of it taken as shall be sufficient to make a seal, and that the remainder of it be used as a sleeping room for the men. This I deem a needed change that should be made at once. No. 2. engine house roof needs repairs, the building, the property of the city, is being injured by water leaking through the roof. No. 2 engine needs a new steam grage, elso some repairs to the boil-er which should not be neglected. There is some hose at this house which should be tested and if four linefficient condemned; if is thought to be too much worn to stand a fire pressure. At this house some cheap ventilation should be put in to dry the air under the floor and thus prevent rotting of the floor. I would recommend to your honorable body, that a large castern be con-

The Stewart Murder Case. In the circuit court the Stewart murder case still draws attention. The defendaut was put upon the witness stand yesterday, and was giving in his testimony, with few interruptions during the afternoon yesterday and this forenoon. He tells somewhat a different story now than that given at the coroner's inquest, or before Judge Patten in his examination. He now admits of having a quarrel with Spencer Turner, the deceased, in are for the jury to unrayel, and ere the Gazette reaches its readers this evening the evidence in the case will all have been taken. The case will probably not be concluded before to-morrow. The Fourth of July.

A committee of St. Patrick's church are now busy making arrangements for the celebration of the fourth of July inthis city. They propose to have a jolly patriotic time, and invite everybody to participate. They have already selected Mayor J. W. St. John for president of the day; Hon. John Winans is announced as the orator, and Mrs. J. B. Day will read the Declaration of Independence. Other good speakers will be engaged and an interesting celebration will be held.

Good music and refreshments will be upon the grounds. The celebration is for the benefit of the Sisters of Mercy.
